BECAUSE A NEW FOREVER AWAITS

THIS IS THE FACE OF ABUSE IN BALTIMORE

CHANCE WILL DIE WITHOUT YOUR HELP.
DONATE NOW TO SAVE HIS LIFE.

This is Chance.

Yesterday he was found in Patterson Park tied to a tree. Covered in his own blood. He didn't even cry for help.

Vets say the 26 slash marks that cover his body were made with a knife. A very sharp knife.

The swelling on his face and broken teeth are from multiple blows to the head.

It's hard to say what caused the damage to his right hind leg, but most gangs in the city use baseball bats and pipes as their weapons of choice.

The vets are treating Chance's wounds even as I type this, at least the physical ones.

He needs to be stabilized before they can do surgery on his leg. The doctors are hopeful they can save it. But there is a possibility it will need to be amputated.

A warm bath will remove the blue spray paint that covers his body. But it will take much longer to heal his spirit.

That's why we need your help.

Your donation can ensure that Chance not only gets the physical care he needs, but also the love he needs to heal his soul.

DONATE NOW TO HELP HEAL CHANCE

Chance was headed for the city shelter after he was found in the park. He would have likely been euthanized before the day was over.

But one of our volunteers heard about Chance and pulled him before it was too late.

Sadly, Chance is only one of many dogs in need of saving.

The city never seems to run out of four-legged victims of abuse and neglect.

Please donate today to save Chance and all the other animals in need of care and hope.
